CAPITAL CREDIT ALLOCATIONS

Capital credits represent a member's share of the cooperative's earnings, or "margins," which are allocated to members based on their usage of the cooperative's services. Essentially, when a cooperative has money left over after paying its expenses, those leftover funds, or margins, are allocated back to the members as capital credits.

Co-op Earns a Margin (Profit)

At the end of a fiscal year, the co-op calculates its revenues minus expenses. If there's a surplus, it's not called a "profit" but a margin.

Board Approves Allocation

The Board of Directors decides how much of the margin to allocate back to members as capital credits and how much to retain for operating reserves.

Credits Are Allocated

Allocated capital credits are recorded in the member's name but not immediately paid out. Typically this occurs annually, mid-year.

Credits Are Retired Over Time

Over time (usually a 20 + year cycle), the co-op retires (pays out) these credits to members, typically delivered by check.

ALLOCATIONS ARE:

Recorded in your account, but not paid out.

Happen on an annual basis, once the financials are closed.

Based on the amount you paid for services for the year.

Think of this as the co-op's way of keeping track of your share.

RETIREMENTS ARE:

Approved payout of past allocations by board of directors.

Dependent on the cooperative's financial health.

Typically delivered by check

Think of it like a refund check from the cooperative.
